200 Germans On Way To French Isle Questioned

LONDON, June 2—The French steamer Winnipeg, intercepted by the Dutch warship Van Kingsbergen in West Indian waters last week, was carrying 200 Germans to Martinique, an official communique said today.

Issued by the Netherlands navy in exile through the British admiralty, the statement said the Winnipeg sailed from Marseilles and called at Dakar.

"When intercepted," the communique said, "she had aboard over 200 Germans bound for Martinique."

"Reason for presence of the Germans is not clear. They are now undergoing examination."

SYDNEY—With the statement that "we're in the greatest jam this country and the British Empire ever have faced," Herbert Evay, laborite member of the Australian advisory war council today appealed for "complete mobilization of all resources."

LONDON—All fighting in Iraq was reported at an end today as British forces took charge of the country and its fabulous oil supplies which lubricate the engines of war.

Latest reports from Cairo stated that the new Iraqi government that replaced the "rebel" Rashid Ali regime will allow British troops to be transported without hindrance through Iraqi territory.

NEW YORK—The German radio claimed today that fighting was continuing "in all parts" of Iraq with the exception of the Baghdad area.

In a broadcast picked up in New York by CBS, the German announcer said that the Anglo-Iraqi armistice applied only to the Baghdad district.

LONDON—Loss of the armed merchant cruiser Salopina, sunk in action with the enemy, was announced by the British admiralty today.

LONDON—Emigre German circles in London claimed today that 700 torpedo and gunnery experts from the German battleship Tirpitz were aboard its sister-ship, the Bismarck, when the latter was sunk.

They said this brought German casualties aboard the Bismarck to 2,000 men.

Anti-Interventionist Asks President To Take People Into Confidence

WASHINGTON, June 2—Some informed Washington observers today believe that John G. Winant, American ambassador to London, has returned to the United States to report personally to President Roosevelt the terms of a German peace offer to Britain.

Speculation revolves on the possibility that a German peace offer was actually delivered to the British by Rudolf Hess, No. 3 Nazi, after his sensational solo flight to Scotland May 10. If Hess did carry an official or unofficial German peace offer, it is pointed out, then Winant would be the logical person to bring news of it, along with the British government's reaction, to President Roosevelt.

Aside from Winant's return, there have been other rumors in Washington of impending peace negotiations. Over the holiday week end Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., leader of the senate non-interventionists, called on the President "to take the people into your confidence and inform them of the German peace terms."

BRITISH TELL GRIM STORIES OF BITTER FIGHT ON CRETE

A MIDDLE EAST PORT, June 2 — While cheering friends and skirling bagpipes gave them a tumultuous welcome, British troops evacuated from Crete told grim stories today of the fall of the Mediterranean island after 12 days of probably the fiercest fighting this or any war has witnessed.

Weary, travel-stained and bearded — but still in good spirits—the troops reached this port after being evacuated successfully under incessant dive-bombing attacks from Nazi Stukas.

A New Zealand veteran related: "The sky was a whirling mass of planes, bombing and machine-gunning, as we marched wearily 30 miles over the mountains to our points of embarkation.

"The weather was atrocious — rain, snow and hail. Also, the wounded slowed us up."

One party of 60 Anzacs swam in formation a distance of 3,000 yards from a beach to a destroyer west of Cana. As they swam German Stukas dived low over the water and machine-gunned them.

Fierce fighting was still in progress in the hills of Crete between the British rear guard and the advancing Germans as the ships managed to get out the painfully wounded on Saturday.

Space Being Cleared For Construction Of $45,000 Utility Company Project

Space for the $45,000 Citizens' Telephone Company building to be erected on Pinckney Street was rapidly being cleared Monday.

Workmen who began tearing down the 30 foot by 35 foot building between the telephone office and the Cliftona Theatre last week had the building dismantled Monday and were preparing a site for the new structure.

Front entrance of the new building will be on Pinckney Street, the structure to run to the alley west of which is the Theatre building. The Pinckney-Court corner on which the present building stands will be cleared and landscaped. The present office will be dismantled after the new building has been erected.

In the picture the tree marks the area to be landscaped, and the building at the rear, beyond the alley, represents the theatre building.

The new building, a two-story brick structure, will be 30 feet deep and 58 feet long and will contain approximately 5,000 square feet of floor space. Construction contract is being filled by Stansbury and Stout, and calls for completion of the building by September 1.

The building recently torn down to provide space for the new structure was used as a storehouse by the telephone company. Formerly, it was a horse barn for the American Hotel and was constructed in the late 1870s.

The local board at present is considering placing a levy before Circleville voters as the only means of meeting necessary expenses for repairs to the present school buildings and at the same time pay the salaries of Circleville teachers next fall.

Most of the township school boards are in good financial condition Superintendent George McDowell reported, and revenue received from the distribution will be used for current operating expenses next fall. Distribution in the county schools was as follows:

Ashville Village, $2,057.09; Darby, $3,737.88; Deer Creek, $2,858.90; Harrison, $1,280.73; Jackson, $2,788.73; Madison, $765.42; Monroe, $3,849.95; Muhlenberg, $616.96; New Holland, $2,702; Perry, $2,340.64; Pickaway, $1,572.46; Salter Creek, $3,716.95; Scioto, $4,560.56; Tarlton, $771.99; Walnut, $4,138.09; Washington, $2,473.66 and Wayne $2,091.12.

OHIO DEATH TOLL SOARS TO 28 FOR HOLIDAY PERIOD

By International News Service

A total of 28 persons met death on Ohio's highways over the long holiday week end, a survey revealed today. Twelve of the victims were killed Friday, Memorial Day, and 16 Saturday and Sunday.

Robert L. Collings, 64, of Youngstown died of injuries received when he was struck by a hit-skip driver.

Merle Epley, 13, of Hartsville, was killed when a small truck driven by his brother went out of control and plunged into a ditch.

Theodore Hartman, 45, guard at the Plum Brook ordnance plant at Sandusky, died from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile while on his way to work.

Mrs. Anna Jones, 60, of Erie, Pa., was killed in an automobile accident near Medina.

James E. Henry, 27, of Sebring, lost his life when the automobile in which he was riding plunged off the road.

Samuel Kazangidis, 10, Canton, was killed when he was struck by a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train.

Mrs. George Jayne, 70, was killed near Chillicothe when the automobile in which she was riding hit a ditch on Route 23, throwing her through the roof. Mrs. Edna Lloyd, 42, of Cleveland, was driving the car.

Charles Schafer, 60, died in a Springfield hospital of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile May 24.

John S. Fitzer, 48, of Columbus, died of a heart attack while driving in north Columbus. The car crashed into a parked automobile. His three-year-old daughter was uninjured.

LIMA, June 2—Coroner Harry Lewis today wrote after the name of Mrs. Frances Davis, 34: "Electrocuted by a floor lamp." Mrs. Davis was found dead on the floor of her home by a neighbor, Gilbert Wells, who was summoned by his son and a playmate who noticed the peculiar actions of the Davis' dog.

One of Mrs. Davis' hands still grasped the handle of a vacuum cleaner. Close by was a floor lamp. When Wells sought to pick the woman up he was shocked and unable to release his hold until he kicked the lamp from its base.

Electricians said there must have been an unusual short circuit and ground connection between the lamp and cleaner.

More May Fall; Highway Workers Checking For Washouts

Drenched with nearly two inches of rain that fell Saturday and Sunday, Pickaway County farm lands may be in for another soaking as skies remain overcast.

The drought, which has had farmers worrying since the beginning of the growing season, ended abruptly late Saturday when a driving rain began about 5 o'clock stopped temporarily, then poured down again about 9, and continued intermittently during the night. Official measurement Sunday morning was 1.64 inches. Sunday showers added another .3 inches, making the total for the week end 1.94 inches.

Farmers and agricultural authorities pronounced the rain a lifesaver for growing corn fields and meadows. Wheat in certain sections of the county was down, but Agricultural Agent F. K. Blair said that most of it would straighten up again. The rain probably will keep farmers out of their fields until the middle of the week.

Saturday's downpour at 5 o'clock was reported heaviest east of Circleville, and on Route 22 near the County Home traffic was stalled temporarily.

State highway department crews Monday were checking state routes in the county for possible washouts and water damage. Water was over the road on Route 56 near Laurelville and on Route 23 south of Circleville, but the highway department reported no damage.

The Scioto River Sunday jumped to a high of 4.33 feet but by Monday morning it had dropped five inches and was still falling. High temperature Sunday was 83 and low Monday morning 68.

MUMBLED WORDS LEAD POLICE TO WOMAN'S BODY

CARLISLE, Pa., June 2—A husband's mumbled inquiry for his wife as he lay critically injured in a Carlisle Hospital today enabled police to recover the body of Dorothy K. Reike, 28, Baltimore, Md., from a wrecked automobile in a five-foot deep mill race near Carlisle.

The car, driven by Maurice G. Reike, 27, failed to negotiate a slippery curve early today and crashed into a bridge rail throwing him from the car which skidded into the water. He sustained a crushed chest and severe internal injuries.

Police were unaware that Reike's wife was in the automobile until he momentarily regained consciousness in the hospital. When police rushed back to the scene of the accident they found Reike's wife in the partially submerged wreckage. A lack of water in her lungs led physicians to believe that she died instantly.

The couple's injured pet Doberman Pinscher was swimming aimlessly in the water and crawled to the bank and died when Mrs. Reike's body was pulled from the wreckage.

CONTRACT WITH FORD ASKED BY UAW-CIO UNION

DETROIT, June 2—Negotiations for a contract between the Ford Motor Company and the UAW-CIO were to be started today, although the NLRB has not yet formally certified the UAW-CIO as the winner of the collective bargaining election at the Rouge and Lincoln plants.

Expected to represent the company were H. L. Muckle, Harry Mack, Frank J. Noland, Elmer S. DePlanche, Jack Blott and James Brady. Spokesmen for the union were expected to be R. J. Thomas, UAW-CIO chief; George F. Ades and Richard T. Leonard.

The union, which won the collective bargaining election by a wide margin over an A. F. L. fed-eral local, is seeking a ten cent an hour pay hike for hourly workers, paid vacations, seniority clauses and a uniform grievance system.

German officials said that in Crete the Luftwaffe had clearly demonstrated the fallacy of supposing that the British Navy was supreme on the seas.

"With the strength of the fleet disproved, the props will be knocked down under the British Empire in the long run," said a German spokesman.

Italy meanwhile was suffering some unpleasant difficulties over the shortages of food, grain, fodder and cereals. One Italian newspaper called for the death penalty for food speculators. All existing supplies of grain, cereals and fodder were requisitioned. An agreement was signed with Switzerland for food imports.

Berlin claimed taking another 3,000 prisoners in the final stages of fighting in Crete, bringing the total to 13,000.

Both the Germans and the British agreed that the Germans were in full control of Crete. The British claimed to have evacuated 15,000 troops from the blood-spattered island. The Nazis pooh-poohed this claim as "pure propaganda" and said at least 10,000 British troops had been taken prisoner.

German quarters claimed that Britain had been prevented from carrying out a "third Dunkirk" and that prisoners and war materials seized by the Nazis were increasing hourly. According to Berlin, only a "fraction" of the BEF had been picked up by warships and taken from Crete.

German Losses Great

Cairo reported that RAF units were still in action around Crete, protecting the last stages of the British evacuation and striking heavily at the air bases the Nazis now hold on the island. Admitting their own losses at Crete were "severe," the British said the Nazi losses were "enormous."

British troops arrived at a middle east port from Crete to tell grim stories of the evacuation and the last days of the fighting. One Maori sergeant, describing the carnage, said it was impossible to walk three feet in the battle zone "without stepping over dead Germans."

Meanwhile, all fighting in Iraq was reported at an end as British forces took charge of the country and its fabulous oil fields. A British dictated armistice was in effect and British troops held Baghdad. Under a new government headed by Regent Abdul Ilah, British forces will be able to move throughout Iraq without hindrance.

During the night German planes heavily raided northwestern England, concentrating especially on the teeming manufacturing city of Manchester, which received its heaviest attack in months.

Many tons of high explosives and thousands of incendiaries fell on the city. Damage was extensive and there were numerous casualties.

Dublin announced that the bombs dropped on the capital of neutral Eire Saturday were of German origin and said a strong protest had been lodged in Berlin. The German capital reported the Dublin protest would not be accepted without full investigation.

Pope's Encyclical

Pope Pius XII, in an encyclical, called firmly for a "new order" after the war in which materials and the men who produce them will be distributed more equitably over the face of the earth. He stressed two other points, respect for the rights of labor and respect for the integrity and well being of the family.

In the United States at Hyde Park President Roosevelt signed an act of congress making civilian needs secondary to the British aid and national defense programs. The measure gives the office of production management authority to impose mandatory priorities on any goods needed to fulfill contracts with foreign governments.

COUNCIL SAFETY GROUP TO FILE PARKING REPORT

Results Of Poll In City's Uptown Area To Be Told Wednesday Eve

PROBLEM IMPORTANT ONE

Discussion Of Special Levy For Operating Expenses Also Scheduled

City council is expected to resume discussion for two controversial issues when it meets in regular session Wednesday night, one-down-town parking, and the other, the three-mill operating levy.

Council's safety committee, under whose direction a survey of merchants' opinions on the parking question is being conducted, expects to complete its check by Monday or Tuesday, and will be ready to make its report to Council on Wednesday night.

At its last regular meeting on May 21, Council turned thumbs down on the merchants' proposal for thirty degree angle parking with five minutes double parking, claiming that the proposal did not represent the opinions of a majority of the downtown merchants. Some of the merchants, on the other hand, have expressed opposition to the system advocated by the police department, parallel parking with parking meters, claiming that such a system would drive away their former customers. The survey now being conducted asks all merchants in the downtown section to cast ballots for or against the parallel-meter system.

Mentioned by Mayor

Consideration of the three-mill levy came up before Council again this year after Mayor W. B. Cady told councilmen two weeks ago that to comply with state regulations, the police department would be forced to add three more men in July. A state law passed by last legislature holds that no police officer shall work more than eight hours out of any 24. Unless additional police are added, the city will be forced to go without protection at least a part of the time, the Mayor warned.

At Wednesday night's meeting, the auditor, the service director and the safety director will present statements showing their estimated operating expense for the next three years. From those statements, Council hopes to make a fair estimation on the city's current operating expenses. Passage of a three-mill levy would bring in approximately $24,000 a year, or $72,000 over a period of three years.

METHODIST PASTORS TO RECEIVE THEIR PULPITS

Pastorates for Ohio Methodist ministers, including those of Pickaway County, were expected to be filled Monday as the Ohio Annual Conference of the Methodist Church, being held in Columbus, was in its last day session.

The Monday service was being held at Broad Street Methodist Church instead of Memorial Hall as was previously planned. Bishop H. Lester Smith of Cincinnati, is presiding at the conference.

The conference began last Monday. It reached its ceremonial peak Sunday when nine elders and 13 deacons were ordained and commissioned to carry on work of the church.

The ordination took place at Memorial hall, with more than 1,000 delegates and visitors attending. Bishop H. Lester Smith of Cincinnati officiated.

Both elders and deacons must have four years of theological study in an institution of approved standing, and be recommended for the ordination. The elders, representing the highest office in the clergy outside of the bishops, may administer the Holy Sacrament.

Elders ordained yesterday were Norman L. Schreiber, Owen Plumley, George J. Taylor, Thomas E. Adams, Jr., of Kingston; J. Carlton Bobbs of Reynoldsburg; Robert Klausmeier of Adelphi; Howard E. Mumms of Springfield; Noble Schlechty of Rossburg and Austin E. Whitmore, assistant pastor of Bexley Methodist church.

Those ordained deacons were Harry F. Baker, Raymond K. Beals, Harold W. DeWolfe, William A. Erwin, Sidney G. C. Everson, Justin J. Hartman, Raymond A. Moore, Philip P. Seppit, John W. Seay, Horace Weaver, Eugene L. Winans and Lloyd Zeller.

Kidnaped?

PERRY LESTER, GUEST
One of the young comedians with fresh material is Jerry Lester who'll be the featured guest of Bing Crosby in the Music Hall Thursday. Such stalwarts of the Hall as Bob Burns, Connie Boswell, Ken Carpenter, the Music Makers, and John Scott Trotter's orchestra will buoy up the full-hour's entertainment at 8 p. m.

Following his custom of giving a boost to promising young talent, Bing Crosby was quick to invite Jerry Lester around to Music Hall again after the young man pulled down a large share of the laughs on a recent visit. It's just possible Jerry may be around to visit the show during the summer a few times when Don Ameche and Connie Boswell will carry on during the Crosby-Burns vacation period.

DUVALL LOOKING TOWARD FALL'S PUMPKIN EVENT

By S. D. Fridley
Phone, Ashville 79

It may be entirely too early in the season to even think about next October's Pumpkin Show and pumpkin pie, but a good start toward these mentioned things has already begun in at least one spot. Met our long time friend, W. A. "Bill" Duvall here Saturday evening, and knowing that he's away up in the front ranks when it comes to growing big and quality squash and pie pumpkins in the whole state, we asked him what the prospects now are with him, for a pumpkin crop. Said it was never better for this time in the growing season and that he has several acres of plants fine and thrifty.

LITTLE CHATS ON PUBLIC NOTICES

A GEM OF THE PRAIRIE

In gathering material for his book, "Gem of the prairie," Herbert Asbury came across hundreds of curious and interesting items. Many of these were culled from the press of early Chicago. For example, the files of the Chicago AMERICAN of that day yielded the following:

NOTICE

My wife, Mary Burnley, left my house and bed on Saturday, 8th instant, without any just cause, and is supposed to have went away with another Hoosier, who probably knew her better than I did. They will be handsomely rewarded for keeping her forever.

Chicago, August 8, 1835

What became of the missing wife and the erstwhile husband who gave her this unusual "blessing" does not matter here if, indeed, it is known. In this bizarre story, however, are two other points worth noting. One is that even in this unhappy instance a form of Public Notice was used to call attention to the matter. The other is that although this was the first year of publication for the American, like other newspapers it was utilized from the outset as the most effective medium for Public Notices. That this is still true is evident to anyone from a study of the laws of the states or from an examination of any newspaper of general circulation.

ville recently, accompanied by his son, N. E. Murphy and family.

The Pleasant Hill community of Athens County was one of the scenes visited in the trip which took the elder Mr. Murphy back to the place where he spent his boyhood some sixty years ago. The Pleasant Hill Church, built in 1851, is still in use and is located on a ridge about seven miles from Athens. The altitude of the ridge is 955 feet above sea level, according to a metal plate in the foundation of the old church. The grave of Mr. Murphy's grandfather, Amos E. Murphy, a circuit judge of Southeastern Ohio was also visited. The site of the first mill dam in Ohio, east of Athens on the Hocking River, and several other old land marks were included in this interesting excursion.

Mr. Murphy saw very few familiar places other than the church, graveyard, dam site, court house and a few farm homes—but the hills with their red clay covering and briar patches brought back memories of happy days in Athens County.

Interesting in airplanes is very naturally increasing and a sojourn to any airport will verify this fact. At a county seat airport the other day an Army plane, among many private ships, was making test flights to thrill the many spectators assembled for a view of the planes. Just as soon as the Army ship landed, many persons, especially young men, crowded around and a constant word of caution from the loud speaker was necessary to keep curious onlookers from climbing aboard. Perhaps Americans are becoming, as they should be, more and more air-minded and it seems to be a clever step by the military to have their airplanes dropping in on the little places to give the populace the necessary "shot in the arm" regarding the importance of the airplane in the present emergency. The urge to fly a plane seems to be growing and rightly so, for we know, by the news from overseas that flying is a very necessary factor in present-day wars. Have you visited an airport lately?

THREE FIRES BREAK OUT NEAR NORFOLK NAVY BASE

NORFOLK, Va., June 2 — An investigation was launched today to determine whether three fires that broke out last night near the naval base were of incendiary origin.

Chief E. J. Cannon said he thought the fires, which caused more than $50,000 damage to the M. T. Bingham Lumber Co., filling defense orders, the Hurst Wholesale Oil Company, and the Dr. Pepper bottling works, were of incendiary origin.

ONCE-FAMED DANCER DIES BY OWN HAND IN COLONY

HOLLYWOOD, June 2—Police today were attempting to find a motive for what they termed the suicide of Jenny Dolly, 48-year-old member of the one-time internationally famous Dolly sisters dance team.

The pajama-clad body of the dancer was found hanging from a curtain rod in her fashionable Hollywood apartment yesterday.

She left no letters explaining her act. Police reported that earlier in the day Miss Dolly had telephoned her aunt, Mrs. Frieda Bakos, and Irving Netcher, Chicago merchant and husband of Rosy Dolly, other member of the celebrated dance team.

Miss Dolly had been in ill health since an automobile accident in France eight years ago when her face and limbs were permanently disfigured. Mrs. Bakos told police that the dancer frequently said: "The doctors didn't do me any favor by saving my life."

Miss Dolly, in private life Mrs. Bernard Vinicksky, had been living in Hollywood with her two adopted daughters for several months. Her husband, an attorney, is believed to be in Chicago. They had been separated for the last six months.

Ellis Island was sold to the United States in 1808, and for many years was used as a powder magazine. It was made an immigrant station in 1891.

JERSEY CITY'S FIRE LOSS SET AT 25 MILLIONS

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 2—Fire Chief Frank Ertle today officially estimated the damage from Saturday night's disastrous blaze on Jersey City's waterfront, the worst fire in the city's history, at $25,000,000.

Chief Ertle, after an examination of the 35 acres of burned out granaries, warehouses, stockyards, piers, packing houses, and railroad property, said there was no indication of sabotage or arson.

The theory that sabotage was not involved was further substantiated by Director of Public Safety Daniel Casey and Police Chief Harold Walsh. Four Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, searching the six-block charred area, refused comment.

At an early hour this morning, the fire was still smoldering, and firemen estimated that it will burn for at least a week. Fireboat crews continued to pour tons of water on the half-gutted and still burning mid-Hudson warehouse. Rubber, oil and food supplies were the principal items destroyed along the docks, officials said. Most of the material, according to warehouse leases, were imports, and only a small percentage was goods for export to England.

FISHERMAN DROWNS IN STORM ON INDIAN LAKE

BELLEFONTAINE, June 2 — Joseph W. Schneider, 50, former Columbus plumbing inspector, drowned Saturday night in Indian Lake when he tried to swim ashore after a sudden squall upset the small boat from which he was fishing. His body was recovered yesterday. Leo F. Morbitzer, and his brother, Richard, who were fishing with Schneider also were thrown in the water, but clung to the overturned craft and later were rescued.

COUNCIL SAFETY GROUP TO FILE PARKING REPORT

Results Of Poll In City's Uptown Area To Be Told Wednesday Eve

PROBLEM IMPORTANT ONE

Discussion Of Special Levy For Operating Expenses Also Scheduled

City council is expected to resume discussion for two controversial issues when it meets in regular session Wednesday night, one-down-town parking, and the other, the three-mill operating levy.

Council's safety committee, under whose direction a survey of merchants' opinions on the parking question is being conducted, expects to complete its check by Monday or Tuesday, and will be ready to make its report to Council on Wednesday night.

At its last regular meeting on May 21, Council turned thumbs down on the merchants' proposal for thirty degree angle parking with five minutes double parking, claiming that the proposal did not represent the opinions of a majority of the downtown merchants. Some of the merchants, on the other hand, have expressed opposition to the system advocated by the police department, parallel parking with parking meters, claiming that such a system would drive away their former customers. The survey now being conducted asks all merchants in the downtown section to cast ballots for or against the parallel-meter system.

Mentioned by Mayor

Consideration of the three-mill levy came up before Council again this year after Mayor W. B. Cady told councilmen two weeks ago that to comply with state regulations, the police department would be forced to add three more men in July. A state law passed by last legislature holds that no police officer shall work more than eight hours out of any 24. Unless additional police are added, the city will be forced to go without protection at least a part of the time, the Mayor warned.

At Wednesday night's meeting, the auditor, the service director and the safety director will present statements showing their estimated operating expense for the next three years. From those statements, Council hopes to make a fair estimation on the city's current operating expenses. Passage of a three-mill levy would bring in approximately $24,000 a year, or $72,000 over a period of three years.

METHODIST PASTORS TO RECEIVE THEIR PULPITS

Pastorates for Ohio Methodist ministers, including those of Pickaway County, were expected to be filled Monday as the Ohio Annual Conference of the Methodist Church, being held in Columbus, was in its last day session.

The Monday service was being held at Broad Street Methodist Church instead of Memorial Hall as was previously planned. Bishop H. Lester Smith of Cincinnati, is presiding at the conference.

The conference began last Monday. It reached its ceremonial peak Sunday when nine elders and 13 deacons were ordained and commissioned to carry on work of the church.

The ordination took place at Memorial hall, with more than 1,000 delegates and visitors attending. Bishop H. Lester Smith of Cincinnati officiated.

Both elders and deacons must have four years of theological study in an institution of approved standing, and be recommended for the ordination. The elders, representing the highest office in the clergy outside of the bishops, may administer the Holy Sacrament.

Elders ordained yesterday were Norman L. Schreiber, Owen Plumley, George J. Taylor, Thomas E. Adams, Jr., of Kingston; J. Carlton Bobbs of Reynoldsburg; Robert Klausmeier of Adelphi; Howard E. Mumms of Springfield; Noble Schlechty of Rossburg and Austin E. Whitmore, assistant pastor of Bexley Methodist church.

Those ordained deacons were Harry F. Baker, Raymond K. Beals, Harold W. DeWolfe, William A. Erwin, Sidney G. C. Everson, Justin J. Hartman, Raymond A. Moore, Philip P. Seppit, John W. Seay, Horace Weaver, Eugene L. Winans and Lloyd Zeller.

PERRY LESTER, GUEST

One of the young comedians with fresh material is Jerry Lester who'll be the featured guest of Bing Crosby in the Music Hall Thursday. Such stalwarts of the Hall as Bob Burns, Connie Boswell, Ken Carpenter, the Music Males, and John Scott Trotter's orchestra will buoy up the full-hour's entertainment at 8 p. m.

Following his custom of giving a boost to promising young talent, Bing Crosby was quick to invite Jerry Lester around to Music Hall again after the young man pulled down a large share of the laughs on a recent visit. It's just possible Jerry may be around to visit the show during the summer a few times when Don Ameche and Connie Boswell will carry on during the Crosby-Burns vacation period.

DUVALL LOOKING TOWARD FALL'S PUMPKIN EVENT

By S. D. Fridley
Phone, Ashville 79

It may be entirely too early in the season to even think about next October's Pumpkin Show and pumpkin pie, but a good start toward these mentioned things has already begun in at least one spot. Met our long time friend, W. A. "Bill" Duvall here Saturday evening, and knowing that he's away up in the front ranks when it comes to growing big and quality squash and pie pumpkins in the whole state, we asked him what the prospects now are with him, for a pumpkin crop. Said it was never better for this time in the growing season and that he has several acres of plants fine and thrifty.

Ashville—That much needed rain put in its appearance here beginning with Saturday continuing at intervals through Sunday. All vegetation and field pastures have been greatly benefited.

LITTLE CHATS ON PUBLIC NOTICES

A GEM OF THE PRAIRIE

In gathering material for his book, "Gem of the prairie," Herbert Asbury came across hundreds of curious and interesting items. Many of these were culled from the press of early Chicago. For example, the files of the Chicago AMERICAN of that day yielded the following:

NOTICE

My wife, Mary Burnley, left my house and bed on Saturday, 8th instant, without any just cause, and is supposed to have went away with another Hoosier, who probably knew her better than I did. They will be handsomely rewarded for keeping her forever.

Chicago, August 8, 1835 Jacob Reichter

What became of the missing wife and the erstwhile husband who gave her this unusual "blessing" does not matter here if, indeed, it is known. In this bizarre story, however, are two other points worth noting. One is that even in this unhappy instance a form of Public Notice was used to call attention to the matter. The other is that although this was the first year of publication for the American, like other newspapers it was utilized from the outset as the most effective medium for Public Notices. That this is still true is evident to anyone from a study of the laws of the states or from an examination of any newspaper of general circulation.

becoming, as they should be, more and more air-minded and it seems to be a clever step by the military to have their airplanes dropping in on the little places to give the populace the necessary "shot in the arm" regarding the importance of the airplane in the present emergency. The urge to fly a plane seems to be growing and rightly so, for we know, by the news from overseas that flying is a very necessary factor in present-day wars. Have you visited an airport lately?

THREE FIRES BREAK OUT NEAR NORFOLK NAVY BASE

NORFOLK, Va., June 2 — An investigation was launched today to determine whether three fires that broke out last night near the naval base were of incendiary origin.

Chief E. J. Cannon said he thought the fires, which caused more than $50,000 damage to the M. T. Blassingham Lumber Co., filling defense orders, the Hurst Wholesale Oil Company, and the Dr. Pepper bottling works, were of incendiary origin.

All available fire apparatus battled the flames for two hours and called in help from the navy yard and naval operating base.

ONCE-FAMED DANCER DIES BY OWN HAND IN COLONY

HOLLYWOOD, June 2—Police today were attempting to find a motive for what they termed the suicide of Jenny Dolly, 48-year-old member of the one-time internationally famous Dolly sisters dance team.

The pajama-clad body of the dancer was found hanging from a curtain rod in her fashionable Hollywood apartment yesterday.

She left no letters explaining her act. Police reported that earlier in the day Miss Dolly had telephoned her aunt, Mrs. Frieda Bakos, and Irvin Nether, Chicago merchant and husband of Rosy Dolly, other member of the celebrated dance team.

Miss Dolly had been in ill health since an automobile accident in France eight years ago when her face and limbs were permanently disfigured. Mrs. Bakos told police that the dancer frequently said: "The doctors didn't do me any favor by saving my life."

Miss Dolly, in private life Mrs. Bernard Vininsky, had been living in Hollywood with her two adopted daughters for several months. Her husband, an attorney, is believed to be in Chicago. They had been separated for the last six months.

Ellis island was sold to the United States in 1808, and for many years was used as a powder magazine. It was made an immigrant station in 1891.

JERSEY CITY'S FIRE LOSS SET AT 25 MILLIONS

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 2—Fire Chief Frank Ertle today officially estimated the damage from Saturday night's disastrous blaze on Jersey City's waterfront, the worst fire in the city's history, at $25,000,000.

Chief Ertle, after an examination of the 35 acres of burned out granaries, warehouses, stockyards, piers, packing houses, and railroad property, said there was no indication of sabotage or arson.

The theory that sabotage was not involved was further substantiated by Director of Public Safety Daniel Casey and Police Chief Harold Walsh. Four Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, searching the six-block charred area, refused comment.

At an early hour this morning, the fire was still smoldering, and firemen estimated that it will burn for at least a week. Fireboat crews continued to pour tons of water on the half-gutted and still burning mid-Hudson warehouse.

Rubber, oil and food supplies were the principal items destroyed along the docks, officials said. Most of the material, according to warehouse lessees, were imports, and only a small percentage was goods for export to England.

AIR TRAINS

THE yielding air, thin and soft, seems destined to become the great carrier. A feather will fall down through it, yet it will carry armies and freight trains, or their equivalent in bulk and weight.

Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., is building for use next year a fleet of planes that will haul 10,000,000 pounds of cargo, or 5,000 tons, from the United States to the Panama Canal in two days. It will be done in 72-ton planes, each with four engines of 2,500 horsepower, flying 350 miles an hour, having a load capacity of 64 civilians or more than 100 soldiers.

This will be the largest and fastest transport of a land plane yet produced. It can span the continent in a little more than eight hours or cross the Atlantic in 12 to 14 hours, flying if necessary at a height of six miles. The advantages for war or peace are obvious. Designers have the skill and our country has the fuel. It becomes simply a question whether a given flight or load is worth the cost of such a mode of transport. And power for flight seems to grow steadily cheaper, for commercial and military use.

Thus we come into an era when air power challenges land power so boldly that we begin to wonder what will become of the railroads. They will be needed, of course, for heavy hauling. But most of our passenger hauling is done now in private motor cars, and both passengers and light freight will be handled increasingly by air. Distance fades and the world changes before our eyes.

HEALTHY NATION

THE government's interest in the national diet is no sudden, new development. As far back as 1895 Congress appropriated $10,000 and instructed the Secretary of Agriculture to use it to study the nutritive value of various foods and suggest diets that would be both economical and wholesome. In the following year the amount was increased to $15,000.

Much information about food values has come out of the laboratories since then, with beneficial results to the general public. Vitamins dawned on our horizon in 1911 and thereby solved some mysteries and opened a whole new dietetic regime.

Prom preoccupation with calories we have progressed to preoccupation with vitamins. The latter, we know now, are essential in the prevention of certain diseases and maintenance of general health.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

GEORGE CREEL favors a wartime censorship of cables, but, as a newspaperman, he opposes a press censorship. George ran our Committee on Public Information (the so-called Compub) while the United States was in the last World war, and I myself represented the Compub as its disseminator of news to South American publications, with headquarters in Buenos Aires. Consequently, I know pretty well what George's policy was.

It's true that his effort was rather to get pro-Yankee stuff into print than in the direction of suppression. South American editors quickly recognized that he wasn't trying to muzzle them. Hence they not only didn't resent his activities. They outright appreciated his service, asked for it and published it ad lib. The Compub was alright.

I don't particularly quarrel with a cable censorship, either. It's a nuisance, which can be carried to ridiculous extremes, as it was during the 1914-18 period. I had experience with that, too, for I was a Yankee correspondent in London, and, off and on, on the West Front, before we entered the earlier conflict. It always made me sore to have a dumb-headed censor ditch a perfectly harmless dispatch that I'd filed. Still, I can see that a certain amount of discretion, relative to international communication, may be necessary in such an emergency.

RADIO CENSORSHIP

George also supports a radio censorship. I begin to get a bit sensitive on that subject. The suggestion hints at an abridgement of the right of free speech. My notion is that a citizen's entitled to shoot off his mouth about as he pleases, and it's a privilege that certainly is qualified if he's told that he can't do it if he happens to be standing in front of a mike.

Of course, it's arguable that there isn't much use in putting a husher onto cables if the same information can be transmitted just as well by wireless. It wasn't much of a problem during the last war. The Allies severed Germany's cable connections at an early stage of the game and the wireless wasn't dependable enough to signify materially. For a few months after that rookus started, before I was dispatched to Europe and then South America, I was a foreign news editor in New York. I got reams of wireless copy from German sources (their cable being cut) and it was seldom that I could sort out an intelligible sentence. Now it's entirely different.

On the whole, I agree with George Creel. Censor the cables if we must. I'm not a radio broadcaster, so I'm concerned as to those broadcasters' fate only in an academic way. But as a newspaperman, I'd be prepared to holler my head off at press restrictions—except as to libel and a little stuff like that.

However, there's an evident tendency toward a regular censorship of the press itself. The superficial chat in advocacy of organization of another Compub, like George Creel's—just informative, or even propagandistic, if you care to call it so. But the undercurrent in Washington is to smother news that authority believes ought to be kept corked up.

Lowell Mellett, himself a newspaperman and an old personal friend of mine, is the chap most frequently suggested to handle the job. He denies that a real censorship is what's aimed at, and I presume, from what I know of him (and that's a lot), that he's sincere. But there are others.

KNOX'S VIEW

Navy Secretary Frank Knox is a newspaperman also—publisher of the Chicago Daily News when he isn't on leave of absence, as he is now, in charge of our sea forces. Frank's scheme is what he refers to as a "voluntary censorship." That is, our newspapers are to censorize themselves. But who's to be the final judge of the competency with which they do it? It seems as if the task would require an official administrator. And what will a HE be? A chief censor or what?

Publisher Arthur Hays Sulzberger of the New York Times is a newspaperman likewise. "I believe," he says, "that we can have military censorship and still preserve a large measure of our freedom."

A large measure of it—huh! But not ALL?

And there's a distinction between what Frank Knox said and what Art Sulzberger said.

Frank proposed a VOLUNTARY censorship—the newspapers to impose it on themselves. Art mentions a MILITARY censorship—with an army or navy officer sitting alongside the editor, telling him what he can and can't print? I've been an editor myself. I wouldn't have liked that.

ROOSEVELT'S NEW FORM

WASHINGTON—Behind all the guessing and speculation over convoys aroused by the President's fireside chat is this one basic fact. The old-fashioned form of convoy already is out-moded, and, as Roosevelt indicated at last week's press conference, it will not be used. But the new-fashioned form of convoy, as described in detail in this column May 1st, already is in use and will be intensified.

This is convoy by airplane patrol, using airplane carriers and nearby islands for bases. The destruction of the Bismarck showed how effective this airplane convoy could be.

Airplanes flying above the water can sight the submarine below the water miles away, whereas a surface vessel cannot sight a submarine more than a mile or so away. Therefore you can expect to see a network of United States airplanes crisscrossing back and forth across the north Atlantic, assisted in part by surface warships, but extending all the way to Ireland.

THE PACIFIC FLEET

With this settled, the most important strategic problem being discussed in backstage Navy circles is that of bringing the mighty Pacific fleet from that ocean into the Atlantic to prevent Nazi seizure of the mid-Atlantic Islands and to be ready for other major eventualities.

Every detail in connection with such a shift has been discussed. And while there have been some hot behind-the-scenes arguments, the one thing upon which the admirals all agree is that the fleet must be kept together. To split it into small units and send some of them to the Atlantic, in their opinion, would be disastrous. Battleships must have their accompanying cruisers, destroyers, etc. and they cannot be divided.

Naturally, the idea of the fleet withdrawing from the Pacific is enough to raise the hair on the heads of most people on the West Coast. However, the Navy has worked out a plan whereby it is confident that the West Coast would be in no real danger.

This plan is extremely important, because it illustrates the new type of warfare made possible by the long distance bomber. Also it gives the key to Roosevelt's convoy plans. Finally it illustrates what the Nazi could do to the United States if the plan were reversed in the Atlantic.

Key to the plan is Hawaii and the Aleutian Islands. The admirals are reasonably confident that long distance patrol planes ranging out from Hawaii in the mid-Pacific and from the Aleutians in the

Many Ancient Superstitions and Strange Beliefs Persist

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

My friend, Mr. A. Monroe Aund, Jr., of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, has spent a lifetime collecting the folk lore and folk history of the Pennsylvania Dutch. It is a unique contribution to Americana and I wish every community in our country had an Aund to record the native sayings and habits of the countryside; they are rapidly becoming a part of the past. You may remember they had a witch or "hex" trial for murder in Pennsylvania not long ago.

Mr. Aund's latest compilation is Popular Home Remedies of the Pennsylvania Germans. Here are some of the quaint beliefs from long ago about how to treat common illnesses. What is a superstition? "Something the other fellow believes" is a safe answer. "An ignorant or irrational fear" says the dictionary. But don't forget, some superstitions have turned into sound science—like the belief of the milk maids of Gloucestershire who thought, to every scientific man's amazement in the 18th century, that scalding their milk pails would prevent the milk from souring. "A superstition, as its name implies, is something that has been left to stand over like unfinished business from one session of the world's witenagemot to the next," wrote James Russell Lowell.

Interesting Superstitions

Here are some items from Mr. Aund's collection of superstitions:

To tickle a child before it is a year old may cause it to stammer.

Remove freckles by washing them with the water of baptism, or with the water collected from tombstones. If it rains on you while there is a rainbow, you will get freckles. Wash freckles with dew on the first of May.

If you would prevent headache, or toothache, you must form the habit of putting on your right stocking first; your right shoe, etc.

For hicoughs sit down with a glass of water by your side; let some one put a little water of each ear with the little finger of each hand, keeping the fingers there until you have drunk all the water.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

DEATH AT THE SWITCH

RICHARD HOUGHTON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

Henry Potter starts to walk to the village in the rain for an evening of checkers. His umbrella collapses and he seeks shelter at long-closed Wildwood lodge, in whose big basement a model railroad club is operating its elaborate train system. A few minutes later John Ives, member of the club, is found shot to death in the train dispatcher's tiny room. The next day, accompanied by a stranger named John Jones, whom Henry suspects is a policeman assigned to the job of shadowing him, Henry goes to Ives' house and learns that the dead man left a letter in which Ives foretold his own death.

CHAPTER NINE

"A MAN wouldn't stop in the middle of a letter like that!" John Jones asserted. He drew another long cigar from an inner pocket and excitedly bit off the end.

"It sounds strange to me," said Henry. "He wrote, 'Evil will not listen to me. What did he mean?'"

"Just a manner of expression," declared the big man impatiently. His blue eyes had lighted up. "The important thing is to find the second sheet of paper."

"I'm afraid we never will," Mrs. Willett, the housekeeper, informed them. "The only thing I found—just a minute before you knocked on the door—was a charred piece of paper in the fireplace. I left it there. I thought maybe the detectives would have some way of reading it."

Henry and persistent Mr. Jones followed Mrs. Willett into the cold living room. The big man got down on his knees and studied the piece of paper to which Mrs. Willett referred. It was black—almost ready to crumble into ash.

Mr. Jones granted his disappointment. "Looks like the same size sheet of paper all right, but nobody will ever read it." He dusted off his knees as he rose to his feet. In one hand he had miraculously picked up the only intact part of the paper. He carried it to a window. "Yep. There's a part of the Spiritualist church letterhead still to be seen—but that's all. This is the second half of the letter the murdered man wrote. Someone deliberately destroyed it!"

Henry was bewildered. "But why would anyone destroy the second half and not the first?"

"Maybe the two pages weren't together."

"You'd better put that paper back in the fireplace!" snapped Mrs. Willett. "I didn't say you could touch it. That's for the detectives."

"Pardon me, ma'am," apologized John Jones. There was no expression on his face. He carefully returned the flimsy bit of evidence.

Henry was studying him with narrowed eyes. If John Jones was a detective, why didn't he say so? Mrs. Willett led them back to the kitchen. "I can't think of any one who would want to kill poor Mr. Ives," she said, her temporary displeasure with Mr. Jones forgotten in her greater sorrow. "He did so much for everyone. He gave away almost everything he had. See, there is hardly anything left."

Henry had to admit that the house was dismal. In the silence, while no one spoke, he heard rain dripping into a pan in the attic. A loose shutter rattled in the wind.

Old George, staring blankly at him from across the table, gave him a creepy chill.

They all sat down. "Ives must have had an enemy," Henry insisted. "He couldn't have been killed without reason."

Mrs. Willett shook her head. "I've puzzled it over and over. There's no one."

The old man piped up. "How about the Evil Thing in his letter?"

"Father, you don't understand. That was just his manner of speaking. It was a condition he fought, not a person."

"He said it wouldn't listen to him."

Mrs. Willett sighed. "If he could only come back and tell us!"

"We must be practical," Henry reminded her. "We've got to look for clues. Maybe he had old letters . . ."

"The police took them all—except the one we found in the tobacco jar."

John Jones coughed. "Was he interested in anything outside his home—in any way that he might have made an enemy of one of the railroad club members without your knowing it?"

"His only other interest was his charities."

"Was he especially interested in model railroading?"

"No. The others were, but he hated it!"

Henry frowned. "But if he hated it, why . . ."

Mrs. Willett's eyes were pained. "I tried to get him to tell me why he went to the club meetings—why he played with trains if he didn't like them. He wouldn't say. I feel sure the answer to his death is there!"

"He was killed by someone in that basement last night," Henry agreed. "We know that. There are only seven persons who could possibly have done it."

"Eight," Mr. Jones reminded him, "—if you count yourself."

Henry was annoyed. "Alright, eight. If we trace Mr. Ives' connection with each of the eight we should find the answer."

"The police ought to have given 'em all the third degree while they were together," Jones declared. "They were so sure they had the right man that they let the rest go. Now that they've learned their mistake they'll never have as good a chance again."

"Why couldn't they call another meeting of the model railroad club?" Mrs. Willett asked. "No one would stay away. It would look like he was guilty."

"You've got something there!" Mrs. Willett's father leered. "Maybe Ives will come, too."

"Father!" Mrs. Willett paled, then her eyes gradually lightened and she almost smiled. "Why not? Mr. Ives said he would!"

Henry drew a deep breath. "You—you mean he'd come back from the grave to point out his murderer?"

"He and I know that the dead do come back, Mr. Potter. You may scoff, but there are too many proofs!"

Henry's mouth opened. For a moment he couldn't speak. "Surely you don't think he actually can do it!"

"Whether he can or not, it will be an interesting psychological experiment," the big man told him. "Suppose you were a murderer and were brought back to the scene of your crime, and you were told that the dead man was a Spiritualist who believed he could come back after death? Suppose a test was arranged, and in the room with you were police, watching your every action. Could you hide your guilt?"

"That's it! That's it!" cried old George.

"Hush, Father," Mrs. Willett was breathless. "You men may think he can't come back—but he will!"

John Jones was chewing on his cigar. "Let's see. What could we have in the way of a test? Suppose we start the train going around and around the room. Suppose we station each member of the club at a different point along the track, and announce that Ives will try to derail the train in front of the man who killed him?"

"I'll tell him!" cried Mrs. Willett.

Henry frowned. "Tell who?"

"I'll tell Mr. Ives to do it! I know he can. It is such a little thing to move one of those tiny switches."

AIR TRAINS

THE yielding air, thin and soft, seems destined to become the great carrier. A feather will fall down through it, yet it will carry armies and freight trains, or their equivalent in bulk and weight.

Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., is building for use next year a fleet of planes that will haul 10,000,000 pounds of cargo, or 5,000 tons, from the United States to the Panama Canal in two days. It will be done in 72-ton planes, each with four engines of 2,500 horsepower, flying 350 miles an hour, having a load capacity of 64 civilians or more than 100 soldiers.

This will be the largest and fastest transport of a land plane type yet produced. It can span the continent in a little more than eight hours or cross the Atlantic in 12 to 14 hours, flying if necessary at a height of six miles. The advantages for war or peace are obvious. Designers have the skill and our country has the fuel. It becomes simply a question whether a given flight or load is worth the cost of such a mode of transport. And power for flight seems to grow steadily cheaper, for commercial and military use.

Thus we come into an era when air power challenges land power so boldly that we begin to wonder what will become of the railroads. They will be needed, of course, for heavy hauling. But most of our passenger hauling is done now in private motor cars, and both passengers and light freight will be handled increasingly by air. Distance fades and the world changes before our eyes.

HEALTHY NATION

THE government's interest in the national diet is no sudden, new development. As far back as 1895 Congress appropriated $10,000 and instructed the Secretary of Agriculture to use it to study the nutritive value of various foods and suggest diets that would be both economical and wholesome. In the following year the amount was increased to $15,000.

Much information about food values has come out of the laboratories since then, with beneficial results to the general public. Vitamins dawned on our horizon in 1911 and thereby solved some mysteries and opened a whole new dietetic regime. From preoccupation with calories we have progressed to preoccupation with vitamins. The latter, we know now, are essential in the prevention of certain diseases and maintenance of general health.

WORLD AT A GLANCE —By— Charles P. Stewart

GEORGE CREEL favors a wartime censorship of cables, but, as a newspaperman, he opposes a press censorship. George ran our Committee on Public Information (the so-called Compub) while the United States was in the last World war, and I myself represented the Compub as its disseminator of news to South American publications, with headquarters in Buenos Aires. Consequently, I know pretty well what George's policy was.

It's true that his effort was rather to get pro-Yankee stuff into print than in the direction of suppression. South American editors quickly recognized that he wasn't trying to muzzle them. Hence they not only didn't resent his activities. They outright appreciated his service, asked for it and published it ad lib. The Compub was alright.

I don't particularly quarrel with a cable censorship, either. It's a nuisance, which can be carried to ridiculous extremes, as it was during the 1914-18 period. I had experience with that, too, for I was a Yankee correspondent in London, and off and on, on the West Front, before we entered the earlier conflict. It always made me sore to have a dumb-headed censor ditch a perfectly harmless dispatch that I'd filed. Still, I can see that a certain amount of discretion, relative to international communication, may be necessary in such an emergency.

RADIO CENSORSHIP

George also supports a radio censorship. I begin to get a bit sensitive on that subject. The suggestion hints at an abridgement of

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

ROOSEVELT'S NEW FORM

WASHINGTON—Behind all the guessing and speculation over convoys aroused by the President's fireside chat is this one basic fact. The old-fashioned form of convoy already is out-moded, and, as Roosevelt indicated at last week's press conference, it will not be used. But the new-fashioned form of convoy, as described in detail in this column May 1st, already is in use and will be intensified.

This is convoy by airplane patrol, using airplane carriers and nearby islands for bases. The destruction of the Bismarck showed how effective this airplane convoy could be.

Airplanes flying above the water can sight the submarine below the water miles away, whereas a surface vessel cannot sight a submarine more than a mile or so away. Therefore you can expect to see a network of United States airplanes criss-crossing back and forth across the north Atlantic, assisted in part by surface warships, but extending all the way to Ireland.

THE PACIFIC FLEET

With this settled, the most important strategic problem being discussed in backstage Navy circles is that of bringing the mighty Pacific fleet from that ocean into the Atlantic to prevent Nazi seizure of the mid-Atlantic Islands and to be ready for other major eventualities.

Every detail in connection with such a shift has been discussed. And while there have been some hot behind-the-scenes arguments, the one thing upon which the admirals all agree is that the fleet must be kept together. To split it into small units and send some of them to the Atlantic, in their opinion, would be disastrous. Battleships must have their accompanying cruisers, destroyers, etc. and they cannot be divided.

Naturally, the idea of the fleet withdrawing from the Pacific is enough to raise the hair on the heads of most people on the West Coast. However, the Navy has worked out a plan whereby it is confident that the West Coast would be in no real danger.

This plan is extremely important, because it illustrates the new type of warfare made possible by the long distance bomber. Also it gives the key to Roosevelt's convoy plans. Finally it illustrates what the Nazi could do to the United States if the plan were reversed in the Atlantic.

Key to the plan is Hawaii and the Aleutian Islands. The admirals are reasonably confident that long distance patrol planes ranging out from Hawaii in the mid-Pacific and from the Aleutians in the the right of free speech. My notion is that a citizen's entitled to shoot off his mouth about as he pleases, and it's a privilege that certainly is qualified if he's told that he can't do it if he happens to be standing in front of a mike.

Of course, it's arguable that there isn't much use in putting a bumper onto cables if the same information can be transmitted just as well by wireless. It wasn't much of a problem during the last war. The Allies severed Germany's cable connections at an early stage of the game and the wireless wasn't dependable enough to signify materially. For a few months after that ruckus started, before I was dispatched to Europe and then South America, I was a foreign news editor in New York. I got reams of wireless copy from German sources (their cable being cut) and it was seldom that I could sort out an intelligible sentence. Now it's entirely different.

On the whole, I agree with George Creel. Censor the cables if we must. I'm not a radio broadcaster, so I'm concerned as to those broadcasters' fate only in an academic way. But, as a newspaperman, I'd be prepared to holler my head off at press restrictions—except as to label and a little stuff like that.

However, there's an evident tendency toward a regular censorship of the press itself. The superficial chat in advocacy of organization of another Compub, like George Creel's—just informative, or even propagandistic, if you care to call it so. But the undercurrent in Washington is to smother news

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● My friend, Mr. A. Monroe Aund, Jr., of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, has spent a lifetime collecting the folk lore and folk history of the Pennsylvania Dutch. It is a unique contribution to Americana and I wish every community in our country had an Aund to record the native sayings and habits of the countryside; they are rapidly becoming a part of the past. You may remember they had a witch or "hex" trial for murder in Pennsylvania not long ago.

Mr. Aund's latest compilation is Popular Home Remedies of the Pennsylvania Germans. Here are some of the quaint beliefs from long ago about how to treat common illnesses. What is a superstition? "Something the other fellow believes" is a safe answer. "An ignorant or irrational fear," says the dictionary. But don't forget, some superstitions have turned into sound science—like the belief of the milk maids of Gloucestershire who thought, to every scientific man's amazement in the 18th century, that scalding their milk pails would prevent the milk from souring. "A superstition, as its name implies, is something that has been left to stand over like unfinished business from one session of the world's witenagemot to the next," wrote James Russell Lowell.

Interesting Superstitions

Here are some items from Mr. Aund's collection of superstitions:

To tickle a child before it is a year old may cause it to stammer. Remove freckles by washing them with the water of baptism, or with the water collected from tombstones. If it rains on you while there is a rainbow, you will get freckles. Wash freckles with dew on the first of May. If you would prevent headache, or toothache, you must form the habit of putting on your right stocking first; your right shoe, etc. For hiccoughs sit down with a glass of water by your side; let some one put a little water in each ear with the little finger of each hand, keeping the fingers there until you have drunk all the water.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. H. Z.:—"Does continuous gum-chewing do any harm? I mean day after day, hour after hour. Is the removing of moles entirely safe for all people?"

Answer—I do not believe that continuous gum-chewing such as you describe does any harm, but it makes me tired to hear about it, the way you describe it. There is no danger in the removal of moles, with one exception. The single blue-colored or black mole (melanoma) should be removed by a surgeon, with a wide incision. Burning or cauterizing or applying acid or electricity to such moles is dangerous because they are potential malignant tumors and the irritation simply stirs them up.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Just short of a record for North Atlantic speed, the S. S. Queen Mary, Great Britain's proudest ship, steamed majestically into New York harbor to find a bed-lam.

KNOX'S VIEW

Navy Secretary Frank Knox is a newspaper man also—publisher of the Chicago Daily News when he isn't on leave of absence, as he is now, in charge of our sea forces. Frank's scheme is what he refers to as a "voluntary censorship." That is, our newspapers are to censorize themselves. But who's to be the final judge of the competency with which they do it? It seems as if the task would require an official administrator. And what will HE be? A chief censor or what?

Publisher Arthur Hays Sulzberger of the New York Times is a newspaperman likewise. "I believe," he says, "that we can have military censorship and still preserve a large measure of our freedom."

A large measure of it—huh! But not ALL?

And there's a distinction between what Frank Knox said and what Art Sulzberger said.

Frank proposed a VOLUNTARY censorship—the newspapers to impose it on themselves. Art mentions a MILITARY censorship—with an army or navy officer sitting alongside the editor, telling him what he can and can't print. I've been an editor myself. I wouldn't have liked that.

DEATH AT THE SWITCH
By RICHARD HOUGHTON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

Henry Potter starts to walk to the village in the rain for an evening of checkers. His umbrella collapses and he seeks shelter at long-closed Wildwood lodge, in whose big basement a model railroad club is operating its elaborate train system. A few minutes later John Ives, member of the club, is found shot to death in the train dispatcher's tiny room. The next day, accompanied by a stranger named John Jones, whom Henry suspects is a policeman assigned to the job of shadowing him, Henry goes to Ives' house and learns that the dead man left a letter in which Ives foretold his own death.

CHAPTER NINE

"A MAN wouldn't stop in the middle of a letter like that!" John Jones asserted. He drew another long cigar from an inner pocket and excitedly bit off the end.

"It sounds strange to me," said Henry. "He wrote, 'Evil will not listen to me.' What did he mean?"

"Just a manner of expression," declared the big man impatiently. His blue eyes had lighted up. "The important thing is to find the second sheet of paper."

"I'm afraid we never will," Mrs. Willett, the housekeeper, informed them. "The only thing I found—just a minute before you knocked on the door—was a charred piece of paper in the fireplace. I left it there. I thought maybe the detectives would have some way of reading it."

Henry and persistent Mr. Jones followed Mrs. Willett into the cold living room. The big man got down on his knees and studied the piece of paper to which Mrs. Willett referred. It was black—almost ready to crumble into ash.

Mr. Jones grunted his disappointment. "Looks like the same size sheet of paper all right, but nobody will ever read it." He dusted off his knees as he rose to his feet. In one hand he had miraculously picked up the only intact part of the paper. He carried it to a window. "Yep. There's part of the Spiritualist church letterhead still to be seen—but that's all. This is the second half of the letter the murdered man wrote. Someone deliberately destroyed it."

Mary Louise Skinner
Joseph Rooney's Bride

Quiet Ceremony
Performed In
Rectory

Miss Mary Louise Skinner, daughter of Mrs. Zelma Skinner of 465 East Main Street, became the bride of Mr. Joseph A. Rooney in a quiet ceremony Saturday in the rectory of St. Joseph's Catholic Church. The Rev. Fr. Francis Conner read the single ring service at 3:30 p. m. Mr. Rooney is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rooney, 152 East Union Street.

The bride chose a smart summer frock of poudre blue faille crepe, fashioned on redingote lines, for her wedding. She wore white accessories and her flowers were gardenias and Talisman roses. A gold and pearl necklace, the gift of bridegroom, was her only jewelry.

Miss Margaret Rooney, sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride, while Mr. Glenn Skinner served as best man for Mr. Rooney. Members of the immediate families were present for the small informal wedding.

Dr. and Mrs. Rooney were hosts at a quiet reception following the service, relatives being invited to meet the new Mr. and Mrs. Rooney.

Roses grown in the garden of the Rooney home decorated the rooms for the occasion. A decorated wedding cake centered the bride's table in the dining room, an artistic arrangement of roses being a feature of the party appointments. The new Mrs. Rooney cut and served her bridegroom the first piece of the cake.

After a 10-day tour of the northern part of the state, Mr. Rooney and his bride will reside temporarily in Circleville.

The former Miss Skinner, a graduate of Perry Township High School and Bliss Business College, Columbus, has been secretary for the Lewis & Frisinger Construction Company.

Mr. Rooney, a 1927 graduate of Circleville High School, is a highway construction superintendent.

Chrysanthemums from Cuttings
Cuttings can be taken in early spring, even as late as June if non-flowering shoots are still obtainable. Take cuttings about four inches long. With a sharp knife remove the lower leaves on each, cutting as shown in the Garden-Graph. The leaf area at the top of the cutting need not be cut unless there is an excessive amount of foliage.

Plant the cuttings in a mixture of sand and peat. Set them so that at least one or two of the lower nodes are buried. Water well and keep the cuttings shaded for several days. Do not allow the rooting soil to dry out, but do not keep it more than "just moist." After the roots become well formed (about one-half inch long) the cuttings can be potted up.

The asparagus bed should be allowed to rest after late June, at which time it should also be given a liberal feeding.

Mary Louise Skinner
Joseph Rooney's Bride

Quiet Ceremony
Performed In
Rectory

Miss Mary Louise Skinner, daughter of Mrs. Zelma Skinner of 465 East Main Street, became the bride of Mr. Joseph A. Rooney in a quiet ceremony Saturday in the rectory of St. Joseph's Catholic Church. The Rev. Fr. Francis Conner read the single ring service at 3:30 p. m. Mr. Rooney is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rooney, 152 East Union Street.

The bride chose a smart summer frock of poudre blue faille crepe, fashioned on redingote lines, for her wedding. She wore white accessories and her flowers were gardenias and Tullman roses. A gold and pearl necklace, the gift of bridegroom, was her only jewelry.

Miss Margaret Rooney, sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride, while Mr. Glenn Skinner served as best man for Mr. Rooney. Members of the immediate families were present for the small informal wedding.

Dr. and Mrs. Rooney were hosts at a quiet reception following the service, relatives being invited to meet the new Mr. and Mrs. Rooney.

Roses grown in the garden of the Rooney home decorated the rooms for the occasion. A decorated wedding cake centered the bride's table in the dining room an artistic arrangement of roses being a feature of the party appointments. The new Mrs. Rooney cut and served her bridegroom the first piece of the cake.

After a 10-day tour of the northern part of the state, Mr. Rooney and his bride will reside temporarily in Circleville.

The former Miss Skinner, a graduate of Perry Township High School and Bliss Business College, Columbus, has been secretary for the Lewis & Frisinger Construction Company.

Mr. Rooney, a 1927 graduate of Circleville High School, is a highway construction superintendent.

NEW OSU THREE YEAR COURSE TO ASSIST YOUTHS

Ohio State University's four-quarter plan may help some Circleville boys now graduating from high school to get their college degrees before being called to military service, according to Dr. B. L. Stradley, university examiner.

By starting their college studies in the summer quarter June 24, most of the present graduates can complete the regular work for a degree in three years—by the time they reach 21, the present draft age.

They would attend summer quarters as well as the regular academic year, still having the month of September each year as a vacation period. Summer quarter work is of the same quality and given by the same faculty as during the regular academic year. This opportunity holds for most students in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Agriculture, Commerce and Administration, and Education.

University officials are inviting inquiries from young men interested in such programs, in order that proper assistance may be given in planning their studies.

It is emphasized that this is no improvised program to meet national defense needs. Completion of many college courses in this way in three years has been possible since 1922 when Ohio State changed from the semester to the quarter system.

TOP ASSOCIATION TEAMS IN CLOSE FIGHT FOR LEAD

COLUMBUS, June 2—Only a half-game separated the first two teams in the American Association today, the same margin that separated the third and fourth place clubs, three full games further back.

As the result of the heavy holiday week end schedule, Kansas City was in first place, a few percentage points in front of Minneapolis. In games played yesterday, St. Paul trounced the Millers, 5 to 4, and Kansas City split a double bill with Milwaukee, dropping the first game 9 to 5 and winning the nightcap, 5 to 2.

In the Kansas City second feature, Ruger Arizola turned in a two-hit mound performance for the Blues. Johnny Schmitz held Kansas City helpless in the opener. Frank Neseth, rookie hurler, walked home a run in the 11th inning to give the Saints their 5 to 4 decision over the Millers.

Both third-place Columbus and fourth-place Louisville split double bills.

Columbus won the opener against Toledo, 4 to 1, scoring all its runs in the first three innings off Southpaw Emil Bidildi. Toledo took the nightcap, 3 to 2, cramming all their three hits in the fifth inning to score the necessary three runs for victory.

Indianapolis and Louisville traded shutouts, the Hoosiers registered a 2 to 0 triumph in the first game and the Colonels a 3 to 0 win in the seven-inning second feature. Ray Starr held the Colonels to four hits in the opener and Owen Schetz, Louisville hurler, allowed the Indians five safeties in the nightcap.

Billy Conn To Arrive For Contract Sign-Up

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, June 2—Billy Conn arrives today to sign contracts for a bout with Joe Louis—the most important fight of his life—and the little guy will be with him.

This is not exactly front page news but the story of Billy Conn and the little guy is really front page in what has been called the book of life. It's the story of a man and a boy; a tale of a hardboiled little guy named Johnny Ray and agood-looking kid whom the little guy hopes to make world's heavyweight champion.

You see, Billy Conn "must" be everything the little guy "might have been."

Come back over the years. It's 1915. The world is teetering on the brink of madness just as it is today. A Pittsburgh fighter named Johnny Ray was coming along very well in the featherweight division.

He was a fancy sort of a guy with no punch to speak of but plenty of tricks.

He was only a little guy but he was fast and cute and he fought some of the best known names of his day. Fellows like George (K. O.) Chaney, K. O. Charlie White, Johnny Kilbane and Johnny Dundee. He won and he lost but that made no difference to the little guy. All he was interested in was in getting that cash and seeing how quick he could get rid of it.

Went Haywire

A born gambler, the little guy went completely haywire. He bet on horses; on fights and on baseball games. Once, after the last bell sounded in an afternoon fight with Dundee, Ray took a look at the scoreboard at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh just as the news went up that the Pirates had won. He leaped over the ropes and raced to his dressing room. It seems he had a bet on the game and couldn't be bothered waiting for the decision!

Johnny traveled through life like a streamlined locomotive. The lights never went out for him. He burned the candle at both ends—then bought a new one. And soon he was washed up as a fighter and almost as a man. The doctors told him to lay off—or else.

And he did. Then one day five or six years ago, John watched a gaunt, skinny tough kid work out in his Motor Square Gymnasium in Pittsburgh. Something about the boy impressed the little guy and he decided to try, and make something of him.

The kid, of course, was Conn and from that afternoon till today the pair have been inseparable. Ray realized the kid couldn't hit but in speed, determination and a fighting Irish heart he reasoned he had a possible champion.

So Conn has come along through the middleweight and light-heavyweight divisions to fame. A year ago he loomed as the only heavyweight who could draw a breath at the box-office with Champion Louis. It was a perfect spot for a quick pick-up of some much-needed coin of the realm. But Ray refused to sacrifice Billy.

He knew the kid wasn't ready for Louis; that he was frail and light and lacking in experience to compete with a finished fighter so he held Conn back. Now, at 180 pounds or thereabouts and much more polished, Conn will get his chance.

Corundum ranks next to the diamond as the hardest element, the relative degree of hardness of the two being as nine to ten.

REDLEGS SPLIT; RIDDLE STARTS MONDAY'S GAME,

Cincinnati Team And Giants Divide Close Contests; Indians Drop

NEW YORK, June 2 — Elmer Riddle was to go to the mound for the Cincinnati Reds to oppose the New York Giants today, as a victory for each team by identical scores of 3 to 2 was marked down in the record books.

The Giants took the opener of yesterday's twin bill, Hal Schumacher earning his fourth win of the season and Mel Ott hitting the four hundredth homer of his 17-year career. Ott's homer came in the third inning with one aboard but a fifth-inning run clinched the game and sent Monte Pearson, Red starter, to defeat.

In the aftermath, Junior Thompson won his first game of the season for the Reds after a shaky start. Thompson allowed the Giants both their runs in the third and then held them to three hits over the last six innings.

Lonnie Frey's fourth homer of the year and a two-run single by Harry Craft, all coming in the fourth frame, defeated Bill Lohrman, Giant hurler.

In the seventh inning of the first game, Harry Danning, Giant catcher, was chased from the park for registering too strenuous a protest at Umpire Lee Ballanfant's decision on balls and strikes.

Single games against the New Yorks also were scheduled Monday and Tuesday, Wednesday the club was due to move to Philadelphia for a night game. Thursday will be a day of rest, then Friday the Reds and Phils will battle it out in a doubleheader.

Saturday the tempo increases, for on that day the Reds will invade the home field of the steaming Brooklyn Dodgers, who have been performing as many heroes this season. Three single games are scheduled against the Flatbush Flock, whereupon the Reds will move to Boston Tuesday, June 10, for a three game series.

Following the third game of the Boston series on Thursday, June 12, the Reds will hop a rattler west. En route to Cincinnati they will stop at Cooperstown, N. Y., the birthplace of baseball, for an exhibition game against the Cleveland Indians on Friday, June 13.

Return to Crosley Field is scheduled for Saturday, June 14, against the New York Giants. A doubleheader against the Giants is booked the following day, Sunday

WONDER horse of the 1941 racing campaign, Whirlaway, the Warren Wright colt, still hasn't gone "high hat" on his pals, including Boogie, a Dalmatian pup. Whirly and Boogie were snapped outside the stables at Belmont Park, N. Y., where the Kentucky Derby winner goes after the Belmont Stakes early in June.

Billy Conn To Arrive For Contract Sign-Up

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, June 2—Billy Conn arrives today to sign contracts for a bout with Joe Louis—the most important fight of his life—and the little guy will be with him.

This is not exactly front page news but the story of Billy Conn and the little guy is really front page in what has been called the book of life. It's the story of a man and a boy; a tale of a hardboiled little guy named Johnny Ray and a good-looking kid whom the little guy hopes to make world's heavyweight champion.

You see, Billy Conn "must" be everything the little guy "might have been."

Come back over the years. It's 1915. The world is teetering on the brink of madness just as it is today. A Pittsburgh fighter named Johnny Ray was coming along very well in the featherweight division.

He was a fancy sort of a guy with no punch to speak of but plenty of tricks.

He was only a little guy but he was fast and cute and he fought some of the best known names of his day. Fellows like George (K. O.) Chaney, K. O. Charlie White, Johnny Kilbane and Johnny Dundee. He won and he lost but that made no difference to the little guy. All he was interested in was in getting that cash and seeing how quick he could get rid of it.

Went Haywire

A born gambler, the little guy went completely haywire. He bet on horses; on fights and on baseball games. Once, after the last bell sounded in an afternoon fight with Dundee, Ray took a look at the scoreboard at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh just as the news went up that the Pirates had won. He leaped over the ropes and raced to his dressing room. It seems he had a bet on the game—and couldn't be bothered waiting for the decision!

Johnny traveled through life like a streamlined locomotive. The lights never went out for him. He burned the candle at both ends—then bought a new one. And soon he was washed up as a fighter and almost as a man. The doctors told him to lay off—or else.

And he did. Then one day five or six years ago, John watched a gaunt, skinny tough kid work out in his Motor Square Gymnasium in Pittsburgh. Something about the boy impressed the little guy and he decided to try, and make something of him.

The kid, of course, was Conn and from that afternoon till today the pair have been inseparable. Ray realized the kid couldn't hit but in speed, determination and a fighting Irish heart he reasoned he had a possible champion.

So Conn has come along through the middleweight and light-heavyweight divisions to fame. A year ago he loomed as the only heavyweight who could draw a breath at the box-office with Champion Louis. It was a perfect spot for a quick pick-up of some much-needed coin of the realm. But Ray refused to sacrifice Billy.

He knew the kid wasn't ready for Louis; that he was frail and light and lacking in experience to compete with a finished fighter so he held Conn back. Now, at 150 pounds or thereabouts and much more polished, Conn will get his chance.

PAR TO TAKE BEATING IN NATIONAL OPEN TILT

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 2—Start of the 1941 National Open golf tournament still is three days off, but the boys already were demonstrating today that par probably will be given a resounding beating when the firing begins.

Among those showing scant regard for the fairways and greens of Fort Worth's Colonial Club course in practice rounds over the week end were Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, Byron Nelson of Toledo, Gene Sarazen of East Chester, N. Y., Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, and Lawson Little of Monterey, Cal., with Little this year's defending champion.

NATION'S WHEAT FARMERS APPROVE GOVERNMENT MARKETING QUOTAS

80 PERCENT OF PRODUCERS PUT STAMP ON PLAN

Pickaway County's Margin Slightly More Than Two-Thirds

STATE OPPOSES QUESTION

Government Loans Of About 97 Cents A Bushel To Be Assured

With a majority throughout the nation of more than 80 percent favoring the government's wheat marketing control proposal, Pickaway County farmers may expect marketing quotas, limiting the amount of wheat they may sell with a penalty of 48 cents a bushel for those who sell over their quotas.

Unofficial returns from 37 wheat producing states showed 397,299 votes for and 96,114 votes against the control program. Ohio failed to follow the nation in favoring the quotas, its vote being 15,533 for and 16,938 against. However, state wheat markets will be government controlled despite Ohio's opposition vote.

The quota system provides that farmers given an acreage allotment may sell or feed 1941 wheat grown on that acreage without penalty, and they may sell of feed any wheat from previous crops.

Passage of the control program assured wheat growers of government crop loans for wheat at 85 percent of parity or about 97 cents a bushel.

67 Percent For It

Unofficial tabulation of the votes in Pickaway County showed the referendum carried by a slim margin, 67 percent of the voters favoring quotas.

The measure was most popular in Perry Township, where 80 percent of those voting cast their ballots for quotas. Most opposition was registered in Washington Township, where the percentage favoring the issue was 44.

During Saturday's election, 1,358 ballots were cast, 891 for the quotas and 416 against. There were 31 challenged votes which have not yet been checked by the election committee.

Voting in the various townships was as follows:

- Circleville, 21 for, 8 against, 72 percent;
- Darby, 47 for, 34 against, 58 percent;
- Deercreek, 65 for, 30 against, 68 percent;
- Harrison, 74 for, 18 against, 78 percent;
- Jackson, 72 for, 23 against, 75 percent;
- Madison, 61 for, 22 against, 72 percent;
- Monroe, 53 for, 34 against, 58 percent;
- Muhlenberg, 25 for, 23 against, 51 percent;
- Perry, 73 for, 17 against, 80 percent;
- Pickaway, 66 for, 35 against, 66 percent;
- Saltcreek, 57 for, 41 against, 56 percent;
- Scioto, 76 for, 39 against, 65 percent;
- Walnut, 89 for, 25 against, 74 percent;
- Washington, 29 for, 35 against, 44 percent;
- Wayne, 40 for, 20 against, 67 percent;
- Absentee votes, 43 for, 12 against, 78 percent.

WOMAN KILLED SOUTH OF CITY

Route 23, Five Miles North Of Chillicothe, Scene Of Fatal Crash

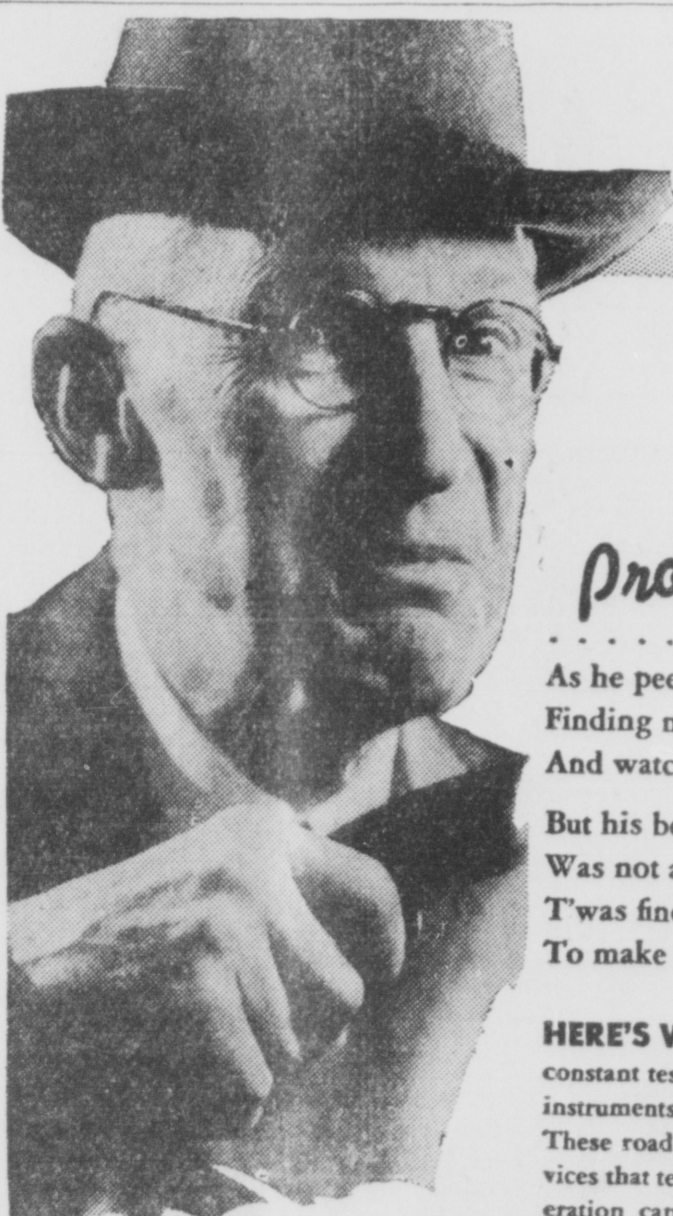

CHILLICOTHE, June 2 — One person was killed and one severely injured Saturday at 3:45 p. m. when a home-made trailer hitched to the back of their car skidded and forced their car out of control off Route 23, five miles north of Chillicothe.

The victims were Mrs. George E. Jaynes, 70, of Oak Hill, who died in Chillicothe Hospital Saturday night about seven hours after the accident, and Mrs. Edna Lloyd, 42, of Cleveland, who is in Chillicothe Hospital with a possible back injury, lacerations above the right knee and ankle.

Mrs. Jaynes was thrown about 30 feet through the roof of the car. State Highway Officer R. J. Galbreath, who investigated the accident said. The car rolled over a six foot embankment and came to stop against a barn by the side of the road.

AZORES AND CANARIES

Now if you transpose the map of the Pacific onto the map of the Atlantic, you will also get an idea of why Roosevelt bore down so heavily on the importance of the Azores, the Canary and Cape Verde Islands in his fireside chat. For the Azores are the Hawaii of the mid-Atlantic, while the Canaries and Cape Verde might be compared to the Aleutians—in reverse position.

Whoever holds these stepping-stones across the Atlantic can sweep that ocean with naval patrol planes and bombers, just as the U. S. fleet can sweep the Pacific from Hawaii and the Aleutians.

If we hold these Atlantic islands, then we hold the gateway to the Atlantic. If Hitler holds them, he controls the first step toward Brazil—and the rest of the way is easy. These were some of the things Roosevelt studied on the large-scale maps of the Navy Department before he made his broadcast.

Another vital point he studied was not mentioned in his broadcast; because no one is talking publicly about the fact that the British may have to withdraw from Gibraltar, even from the Mediterranean altogether. But in case of such a withdrawal, a glance at the map will show that these three sets of islands—the Azores, Canaries and Cape Verde—could help to replace Gibraltar. They sit astride the entrance to the Mediterranean, and long range bombing planes based on those islands could make it hot for any expeditionary force heading out of the Mediterranean for the Americas.

All of these are reasons why you can expect vital action regarding the Atlantic islands.

SLUGGER LEWIS

That half-page newspaper ad sponsored by Southern coal operators bitterly denouncing John L. Lewis and charging him with "dictator" ambitions, had an unadvertised sequel.

It occurred several days after the ad appeared at the meeting of operators and miners called by the Defense Mediation Board in another try at reaching an agreement between the warring groups. The conference took place in the spacious OPM council chamber used by the Board for such powwows.

As usual, Lewis made a solo entry after everybody else was seated. With all eyes on him, he roared into action.

Eyes flashing with anger, he told the operators that their ad was a personal insult to him; that since they had descended to dealing in personalities he was prepared to settle their differences on that basis.

"I challenge any of you," Lewis declared, "to step outside and fight it out man to man."

There were no takers. Lewis sat down and the deliberations got under way.

FIREBUG IS BLAMED FOR BLAZE IN WALISA AUTO

Fire Sunday about 6 a. m. destroyed the body on the car of Roy Walisa, 343 East Ohio Street.

The burning car, which was parked in a drive beside the Walisa home, was discovered by a member of the Walisa household, but not until flames were consuming the upholstery. Firemen said the body of the car, a 1936 Ford coupe, was destroyed but the motor was not damaged badly.

Walisa told Fire Chief Talmer Wise he was certain someone had set the car afire.

Despite the Good Neighbor policy, U. S. insurance firms have declined insurance on Axis ships seized and operated by the Mexican Government. Mexico was following the lead of the U.S.A. in taking the Axis vessels, but although the British will insure them, U. S. firms won't.

Every year Homer Cummings holds "The Attorney General's Golf Tournament" at Pinehurst, N. C., an event started when he was running the Justice Department. Chief rule is: "If any man brings his wife, he's never invited again." After General Allen Gullion, the Army's efficient Judge Advocate General, appeared in the comic strip "Hop Hopper," he received a letter from an old boyhood chum saying: "I have been wondering where you were for forty years, and now at last I've located you through the funny papers."

FIREBUG IS BLAMED FOR BLAZE IN WALISA AUTO

Fire Sunday about 6 a. m. destroyed the body on the car of Roy Walisa, 343 East Ohio Street. The burning car, which was parked in a drive beside the Walisa home, was discovered by a member of the Walisa household, but not until flames were consuming the upholstery. Firemen said the body of the car, a 1936 Ford coupe, was destroyed but the motor was not damaged badly.

Walisa told Fire Chief Talmer Wise he was certain someone had set the car afire.

EX-SHERIFF, SON ORDERED TO STATE PENITENTIARY

WASHINGTON, C. H., June 2 — Judge H. M. Rankin of Common Pleas Court, Saturday, sentenced Henry W. Jones, 70, former sheriff and county commissioner, and his son Perrill L. Jones, 43, to one to three years in Ohio Penitentiary for obtaining signature to a $180 check under false pretenses.

The county grand jury two weeks ago returned eight indictments against the two men, containing 49 counts charging forgery, embezzlement, obtaining signatures under false pretenses and securing money under false pretenses. When arraigned a week ago both men entered guilty pleas.

Henry Jones served as Fayette County Sheriff from 1915 to 1919 and county commissioner from 1928 to 1937. He has another son, Edwin, now serving time at London prison farm for embezzlement.

TWO FIREMEN INJURED

LIMA, June 2 — Two Wapakoneta firemen were in serious condition in a Lima hospital today with burns received Sunday evening when a chemical tank on a fire truck they were refilling exploded. The blast hurled the acid over two men, blinding Anthony Stodler, 58, in addition to burning both he and Jack Hangen, 61.

EIGHT ON WAY TO ARMY DUTY

Six More Draftees Leave For Fort Hayes; Others In Southwest

Pickaway County's first June contingent of six men left Circleville Monday for the induction station at Fort Hayes, Columbus. Hilaire Haecker, East High Street, was appointed leader of the group.

Others included in the call were John J. Schafer, New Holland; George E. Meyers, Columbus; William Davis, Ashville Route 2; Russell Carpenter and Joseph Jenkins, Circleville.

Two other Circleville youths left home Monday to enter army training. They were Don Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wray Henry, who left for Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, to enter Oklahoma City Air School for training as a Flying Cadet, and John Foreman, son of Mrs. Anna Foreman, who left for Las Vegas, New Mexico, to start training in airplane radio work. Young Foreman enlisted at Fort Hayes and was assigned to New Mexico.
